The heavy bars of Sing Sing have closed about Herbert Thornton Andrews, the most spectacular bigamist of the day, for conversion, not for the bigamy charge.

Andrews married Miss Maude Haynes in 1912. They had two chil-dren. Lived in Jersey City. In 1921

Andrews went through a marriage at Greenwich, Conn., and brought her to his Jersey City home.

The first wife obtained a divorce. Authorities sought to prosecute Andrews for bigamy.

Then came a startling discovery.
Connecticut laws provide that the marriage must be consummated in Connecticut—and Andrews and Miss Tatnall had taken a train out of the State the minute the ceremony
